Guidelines for Production Teams
2016-2017 54th Season

Budget Sheet Instructions - Revised 2014

Based on your prior experience, please enter your best estimate of your show's expenses for budgetary purposes. Consider your projected Box Office income based on this formula.

Seat 92 per performance. Average income per seat: $7.50

Formula: # seats sold (multiplied by) number of performances (multiplied by) average income per seat = show income from box office

REVISED 2015: Note that the profit from your show will offset the cost of building operation and overhead as well as your show expenses and provide a profit to the organization. Each production team's show will receive 1/6 of the pre-season ticket sales as well as be responsible for 1/6th of the season overhead. For the 2012-2013 51st Season these numbers were a total of $7,000 and $13,000 respectively.

Example: Using the above figures, on a 6 show season, each show would have been responsible for overhead of $2,167 and receive $1,167 from pre-season ticket sales. Therefore, no matter what the expenses and income for the show is, each show would have to clear at least $1,000 over and above its expenses to make its share of the overhead.

Your budget for script cost or musical rental can be obtained directly from the licensing company and should be reflected accurately on this form. Please estimate accurately for other items, such as set, costume, make-up props, etc.. Please keep in mind as you obtain your figures, the Theatre has many set, costume, make-up and prop resources to utilize.

Please attach your PR plan on a separate paper and clip to your submission package after your budget. Promotion can include ideas of how you want to promote auditions as well as ways to enhance ticket sales, and increase income during the show such as tie-ins for raffles, etc..

Some scripts may suggest music requirements for pre-show, scene changes, intermission and internal cues. If the show you are submitting requires a certain piece of music, you must obtain rights to use the song and may be required to pay royalties for the selection. If you choose to use the suggested music, the rights and royalties must be reflected in your budget. ZCT maintains license agreements with BMI and ASCAP and these agreements only include pre-show, intermission, scene changes in black, and walkout music. ALL other music used in the context of a show must be licensed for each piece. Generally, allow 90 to 180 days for the licensing process. The treasurer can help with this process.

With most plays, you buy the scripts; in musicals, you rent them. Rented materials must be returned or else a late fee will be assessed. Any lost or late fees assessed by a publisher or rental house will become the responsibility of the production team. You may wish to charge a nominal fee to your cast for their scripts to cover any that get lost or damaged, and to cover the late fees.

Each show should strive to make their budget. The show's income may be derived from ticket sales and Corporate and/or Individual Sponsorships. Your budget should reflect projected expenses as well as consider possible income - in cash (at-the-door sales) and in-kind donations of goods and services.
